

Just Saying by Long Time Friend

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

Twenty Seven shot dead on Christmas, thirty six every day of the year

Rolling in statistics, rolling in the fear,

Why set your sight on your 2nd right when we're sprawled across the floor

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

You can give me all the reasons, why your logic's right on track

Every day we watch more die and they're not coming back

You can't buy your way to security up on the Senate floor

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

Might be taking care of business, might be taking in a show

Out to dinner or a movie, or anywhere we go

Sitting in a classroom or walking through a store

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

Civilized, traumatized can't make all this stuff up

Not a Tarantino movie, no one's able to yell
'cut'

We should be looking to be happy, not faced with blood and gore

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

(A cappella)

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

I'm just saying, we've been here before
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
Gotta grab the keys for common sense and
open up the door
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore

I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore
I'm just saying we don't need it anymore